Consistency is our key

Providing high quality teaching staff and senior management personnel to international schools.

We are now offering our complete recruitment service to international schools in Australia, New Zealand, South-East Asia and China.

How we work

Our consultants work closely with schools ensuring that we fully understand your specific requirements and ethos. We then source relevant candidates whilst providing a fully supported service to both the candidate and the hiring school to ensure that all issues are addressed and that the appointment is successfully completed.

Our objective is to develop a successful long-term relationship with your school and our service is on a 'no success no fee' basis. Please note there are no annual subscription charges, and we will support your school throughout the process to make sure that things happen as planned and as expected.

We do what we are best at, leaving you the time to do what you are best at.

Understanding International Schools

Historically it has been expatriate families which have created the need for English-medium schools (British, American and bilingual) throughout the world. However, this has been supplemented by the growth in demand which is being created by the increasing affluent middle classes.

These international schools are almost exclusively independent and have a clear ethos to provide high quality education and internationally recognised qualifications.

The need to recruit first rate personnel has never been more important.

Consistency is our key

Connaught Education was originally founded as a specialist recruiter to the independent schools sector in the UK. We recruit for classroom and teaching personnel, SMT and school leaders. Today we still retain our original focus and our reputation for properly understanding the recruitment challenges facing international schools across the globe.
